Highway Patrol Board Says Counties May Set Speed Limit

Counties throughout the state were given the right to set county-wide daytime speed limits by the Montana Highway Patrol Board, Monday. The board approved resolutions from Flathead County setting limits up to 65-miles-an-hour within the county.

Alex Stephenson, patrol supervisor, said similar resolutions from other counties would be "acted upon accordingly." The state will enforce the limits.

Until last year's legislative move, Montana had a 65-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit by Highway Patrol Board action. The Legislature turned down a request to make the limit state law.

Shortly after the Highway Patrol Board okayed countywide speed limits in Flathead County, Anthony F. Keast, Missoula County Attorney, said, "Missoula will keep the ball rolling by setting its own county limits."

A public hearing was set for this morning at 10:30 at the County Courthouse in which representatives of seven other western Montana counties will try to decide on a set speed limit for their respective counties.

Missoula last year had the worst record of traffic deaths in the state, and the highest in its history—18.

Commenting on last year's legislative action of removing Montana's 65-mile-an-hour daytime speed limit, Keast said, "It was uncalled for, and a vindictive slap in the face."

Miss Hythecker is a junior majoring in elementary education and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

R. E. Week Guests To Address Frats

Several living groups will present dinner speakers in conjunction with the Religious Emphasis Week program, said Jerry Oliver, committee chairman.

Dinner guests tonight will be Father Emmett O'Neil, instructor at Carroll College, Helena; The Rev. Larry Gruman of the University Congregational Church; and The Rev. Vern Klingman, Methodist clergyman from Billings, at Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Kappa and Sigma Nu, respectively.

Last night Father Jacob Beck, Episcopal Church of Missoula, was the guest of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Father O'Neil was at Delta Sigma Phi and Bishop B. West Belnap of BYU was at Phi Delta Theta, Mr. Oliver said.

Lodge Will Get New Facilities

Work will begin, as soon as weather permits, on an air conditioning system to be installed in the activities areas of the Lodge, it was reported yesterday by Prof. E. B. Dugan, faculty advisor to the Student Union Committee.

It was also decided at the Student Union Committee meeting that a typewriter will be available for students who use the ASMSU mimeograph machine.

Tom Schroedel, manager of the College Inn, gave a report on the Inn's operation for the first two weeks of this quarter.

Robert Romstad, representing Central Board, attended the meeting to get a clarification of the Activities Program headed by Barbara Wheeler.

Bud Wallace, chairman of the Student Union Film Program, gave a report on future activities of this program.

Doctor Urges Salk Vaccine After Second U Polio Case

A co-ed has been admitted to a Missoula hospital with an illness identified by medical authorities as "probably polio," according to Dr. Robert W. Hansen, Health Service director.

According to Dr. I. J. Bridenstine, Missoula County Health Office, the case is believed to be a "mild form of paralytic polio." This is the second case since the beginning of winter quarter.

Dr. Bridenstine urges that all Missoula County residents under 40 receive the series and he advises booster shots for those who had the series previously. The vaccine is administered in a series of four shots, two one month apart, the third shot seven months following, and the fourth shot after one year.

The first victim was diagnosed about ten days ago as having a "mild, non-paralytic type of polio."

Spurs Name Two As 1960 Recipients Of Scholarships

Dorothy Hard of Anaconda and Marie Stephenson of Eureka have been awarded scholarships by Tanan-of-Spur, according to Annette Smith, president of Spur.

The scholarships will partially cover fees during winter and spring quarters of 1960. Both two-quarter scholarships were given in lieu of a single three-quarter scholarship, which had previously been given to a woman who is no longer in attendance at the University, Miss Smith said.

Carol Anderson of Helena, formerly a University Spur, has transferred to Montana State College and Miss Smith said a new Spur will be chosen to replace her.

Spurs will help pass out Sentinels this and next week, she said, and will also help at the Central Board elections.

Candidates for sophomore delegate to Central Board have expressed their views on Page 2.

Dr. Hansen indicated uncertainty as to whether the case was polio or some other meningeal disease. He said it was a precautionary measure to treat it as a case of polio. The co-ed has been released from the hospital and has returned to her home in Bozeman.

Both girls are third-floor residents of Turner Hall. Neither girl had received the Salk immunization shots, according to University health records.

University health authorities are taking precautions to prevent the spread of the ailment. Preliminary checks indicate that out of 133 girls who reside in Turner Hall, 90 per cent have received Salk vaccine.

The Health Service will arrange to give booster shots to anyone who has received the Salk treatment, and to begin a course of shots for those who have not had them previously.

Pre-Law Club Will Hear State Justice Speak on Practice

Wesley Castles, associate justice of the Montana Supreme Court, will address the Pre-Law Club Thursday at 4:15 p.m. at the law school.

Robert E. Sullivan, dean of the law school said the jurist will speak to the students about his experiences in law practice. The meeting will be open to the public.

The Pre-Law Club, now in its third year, has a membership of about 65 undergraduate students who are considering law as a career, according to Lester R. Russo, law professor and club adviser. Club members meet periodically to hear members of the profession speak on various aspects of law.

Mr. Castles will replace Chief Justice James T. Harrison, who was originally scheduled.

U.S. Leaders Warn Nation Of Russian Tactics, Power

From UPI Wires

MASS MURDER: Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Calif.) said yesterday the Russians would wipe out between 60 and 100 million Americans if they ever seized control of the United States.

Hosmer, a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, was the principal speaker at the first of six strategy seminars given by the New York Committee of the Industrial College of the armed forces.

Speaking on "Anatomy of the Cold War," Hosmer said his estimates were based on the "standard Communist genocide practice decreeing mass murder of every-one antagonistic or useless to its regime."

JUST 30 MINUTES: Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander of the Strategic Air Command, said yesterday the Russians could almost wipe out the entire American nuclear striking capability in only 30 minutes with 300 ballistic missiles.

Power said that only about half these missiles would have to be huge Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles. The rest could be smaller intermediate range missiles, he said.

He said that as of now, the U.S. still has a large enough margin of overall superiority over the Russians to deter them from risking war, despite their spectacular technological advances.

INDESTRUCTIBLE: The United States yesterday signed a security treaty with Japan which President Eisenhower said laid the foundation for an "indestructible partnership" between the two former enemy nations.

Although presidents generally do not attend treaty ceremonies, Eisenhower personally witnessed the sealing of the U.S.-Japanese alliance, which came 18 years and one month after Pearl Harbor.

The ceremony took place in the same White House east room where the Allied powers pledged the complete defeat of the Berlin-Tokyo-Rome axis in 1942.

There were indications the President would further emphasize the importance he attaches to having resurgent Japan as a committed cold war ally by announcing tomorrow his intention to exchange state visits with Japanese Crown Prince Akihito.

The new pact commits the United States to defend Japan, but Japan is not committed to defend this country or to join in any collective military action outside Japan.

TOO MUCH—Donna Arnst, Alex George and Jane Borden take a sneak preview of the 1959 Sentinel and seem impressed by something, perhaps by the fact that it finally is a reality. Miss Arnst and Miss Borden are business manager and editor of the 1960 Sentinel. George was the 1959 yearbook business manager. Last year's yearbooks are being distributed to seniors today and to juniors tomorrow and Friday at the Radio TV center.

Opportunity Knocks But ...

The University Library needs money, and lots of it, if it is to develop and maintain an adequate quality and number of books, journals and other research materials to facilitate and encourage serious study in the fields of academic endeavor offered by the University. The problem is that Montana is a state with a small population (less than 750,000 people) and inadequate tax funds available to the University prohibit extensive library purchases that are necessary to keep abreast of advances in science and letters.

A solution to the problem has been proposed through the organization of Friends of the Library Group at the University. The purpose of the group is initially to select a nucleus of alumni and other persons outside the University, who are interested in the welfare of the Library and who could take the burden of fund-raising from students and faculty. The alumni group preferably would be organized in the city of Missoula, with members throughout Montana and the nation. The group could organize efforts to raise funds which are necessary to purchase desperately needed research materials. Many times collections or individual volumes of scholarly works are offered for sale to the University but cannot be purchased because of budget limitations. The group would also act as an agent to receive funds from individuals and organizations who desire to make donations to the Library. At present this is difficult because of a lack of machinery existing to assure a donor that his money will be spent in the manner he designates. In this particular instance, the Friends of the Library Group would perform much the same function as does Century Club for athletics.

Dean of the Graduate School, Ellis Waldron, recently stated that a library is the defense budget of the University. Without an adequate library many academic areas are left undefended and breaches appear in the education of students at the University. Without sufficient tax support it is inevitable that the Library will become less adequate as more journals are published and more books written. Friends of the Library Groups have enjoyed great success on other campuses. They can enjoy the same success here if given a well-timed and strong boost by several organizations that exist at the University.

The originator of the idea at the University, Mortar Board, which is currently acting as a rallying point for the organization of the group, has indicated that the first step in forming the group is to obtain a list of former members of University honoraries. With this list, letters explaining the purpose of the group and an explanation urging that such a group be formed can be sent to alumni who appear to be interested in the academic welfare of the University. Campus honoraries could spend a long time looking, but they would not find a more worthwhile project than to offer aid and support to those organizing the group.

Sophomore Candidates Give Views on Student Government

Elections for sophomore delegate to Central Board will be tomorrow in the Lodge from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Following are statements made by the six candidates.

GAYLE HAGEMAN

Candidate Gayle Hageman believes that the primary responsibility of a sophomore delegate should be to present the ideas of that class before Central Board.

To be effective, Miss Hageman said, student government must be active and representative. "It would be difficult for me to say definitely what I favor or oppose, for I would like to be a representative of the sophomore class rather than a voice of my own ideas."

Before a stand can be made on any issue, the representative must know the machinery of Central Board and be familiar with the issue, she said.

Miss Hageman's activities include participation in freshman and leadership camps, and she is a member of the Sentinel staff and leadership camp committee. She was also a cheerleader and a corridor reporter in Brantly Hall.

JENNINE FUNK

"Having been a member of Budget and Finance Committee during this past academic year, I have become very interested in the functions and duties of Central Board," says Candidate Jennine Funk.

Miss Funk believes this previous experience in financial matters would be invaluable in decisions made in the distribution of University funds.

Secondly, she said, she would like to have a part in the reviewing of a revision of the Sentinel's by-laws. The far-extended deadline for the 1958-59 Sentinel has made it necessary for such a revision to take place, she said. "I would like to help make any decisions that would prevent this from recurring."

Miss Funk said she is also interested in the elections program on campus, and feels that she could continue the work done by Kathy Joseph, the out-going sophomore delegate, in this field satisfactorily.

MARLYS NELSON

At the present time, says Candidate Marlys Nelson, many pertinent issues such as the reincorporation of the Student Store, investigation of the student union, and discussion of archaic rules and regulations are before Central Board.

"However," she says, "there are also many uninvestigated fields that must be brought out into the open and acted upon. For example, I believe that committees set up by Central Board, such as the fact-finding committee, should be required to submit monthly progress reports in order that it may be seen whether or not these committees are properly functioning."

Miss Nelson approves of the Budget-Finance Committee's recommendation passed by Central Board concerning the Sentinel. "I believe this can be used as an example of definite regulation which should be given to committees and organizations who receive appropriations from ASMSU funds," she said.

"I feel that as a delegate to Central Board I could assist in making their changes, thus creating more benefits for the individuals of the MSU student body."

Miss Nelson has served on ASMSU and AWS committees in the past.

ERNIE RATZBURG

"There should be more active interest by the students in Central Board's activities," Candidate Ernie Ratzburg told the Kaimin.

Ratzburg said the sophomores can improve this by voting in the primary elections Thursday.

He said he would like to see Aber Day brought back to campus. It would be a chance to close the gap between fraternities and independents by working together to improve the campus.

"I also would like to see some men try out for yell leaders next year," he said. "After observing other colleges and universities I feel they arouse increased spirit among the students and do an excellent job of it."

Ratzburg is a Bearpaw and is a member of Activities Committee.

RON SLOVAK

"I feel that no true loyalty exists at MSU because of the lack of student responsibility the student body has in governmental affairs," says Candidate Ron Slovak.

Slovak said that an increase in responsibility would probably make Central Board a true representative of the student body.

At the present, he said, investigations are being conducted concerning the student union and other organizations on campus. Other fields, including Judicial Council, should be investigated "in order to make Central Board a more functional representative of the student body," he said.

JOHN ULVILA

"I would like to see Montana Boys' State held on our campus," candidate John Ulvila said.

Ulvila said that the public relations gained by this would focus the eyes of the people of Montana upon the University. He said the campus would provide much better facilities for Boys' State than at its current location and in that way provide a greater service to the high school students of the state.

Another facet of public relations Ulvila said he would support is the College Career Days Program.

Brucker Says U.S. May Bring More Forces into South Korea

WASHINGTON, (UPI)—Army secretary Wilbur M. Brucker said today the United States may strengthen its forces in South Korea to offset Communist power in North Korea.

Brucker told reporters, "I'll see what we can do," when asked about a long list of needs set forth by Gen. Carter B. Magruder, top American military commander in Korea.

The Army secretary made the statement upon his return from a three-week tour of the Far East.

Magruder recently said in Seoul that his spare supplies stockpile was inadequate to carry him through the early stages of a war. He said he also needed bombardment and anti-aircraft missiles, communications equipment and radar.

Brucker said there has been no change in U.S. policy on defense of Quemoy and Matsu, the Nationalist Chinese islands off the communist mainland.

He said remarks he made in Taipei Jan. 10 had been misinterpreted to indicate the off-shore islands now were included in U.S. defense plans.

Brucker said under a 1955 congressional resolution, still in effect, the president "solely and exclusively" determines whether the off-shore islands would be defended by America if attacked by the Red Chinese.

This determination would be based on whether an attack on the off-shore islands was part of general aggression against the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa and the Pescadores Islands which the United States has pledged itself to defend, he said.

Brucker said he found all the countries he visited in southeast Asia "very much alert" to the militant nature of Communism as a result of incidents in the Formosa straits in 1958 and by Communist forays into India and Laos.

Athletic Recruiting Not So Profitable

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Butler University officials today told this sad story of the results of athletic recruiting.

The prospect, from another state, arrived Friday under the supervision of athletic director Tony Hinkle. The youth spent the weekend at the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house, where the chapter brothers took him around the campus, loaned him their cars, and even fixed up dates for him.

The young athlete left. Also missing, the fraternity members reported, was $350 worth of clothing, electric shavers, and wrist watches.

Education School Clarifies Teachers' Certification Rules

Elaine White, Executive Secretary of the School of Education, said yesterday a story in Friday's Kaimin concerning certification of secondary teachers needed "corrections and clarifications."

Miss White, in a prepared statement, approved by the Dean of the School of Education Linus Carleton, said:

"Basically, the regulations governing the standard secondary certification of teachers in Montana were not changed last year when the program was revised. Changes did occur in the use of the name of the certificate granted to persons qualifying in certain areas with no accompanying minor(s).

"Previously certificates of this nature (indicating preparation in one area only and in specified areas only) were termed special—not granted in any case where the applicant presented only a major with no minor(s), but in certain specified areas only.

"Last year it was decided to grant to this type of applicant not the Special certificate as previously, but the Standard certificate endorsed in the one area only. The Special certificate now is used solely for certification in such areas as vocational, recreation, and adult education.

"It would be possible for a person having only single area preparation in fields not covered by the above to receive provisional certification until such time as he had prepared himself in minor area(s). It has been possible for some time for persons in certain areas (broad fields such as English, drama, speech, and journalism; general science; social science) to receive standard certification with no accompanying minor(s).

"In this latter case, the broad fields preparation requires more credits of preparation than the normal teaching major and includes work from at least four different areas.

"So far as the interviewee knows, the State Teacher Education committee did not consider or make recommendations to the State Board of Education for certification of teachers prepared only in one area in any field.

"Students wishing additional information regarding certification requirements are asked to contact the School of Education office."
